

Documents Confirm: Google Wanted to Help Hillary Overthrow Syria And Google Says It Rigs Politics Globally

A Political Junkie
War in Syria

While it appears that the civil war in Syria is finally winding down, it is quite apparent that Washington and the military-industrial-Congressional complex most definitely did not get the result that it had hoped for; the removal of Bashar al-Assad and the end of the Assad family regime.

Looking back and with thanks to Google and WikiLeaks, we can see the lengths that the "Deep State" which includes America's technology sector was willing to take to help the Obama Administration and, in particular, then Secretary of State Hillary Clinton, achieve one of its/her key goals in the Middle East.

Now that we have a clear understanding of why the uprising in Syria was so important (i.e. Israel needed it to assure its nuclear primacy in the region), as promised, here is one of Hillary Clinton's emails dated August 3, 2012 which clearly shows us how Google was willing to help the Secretary achieve her goals in Syria:

Deputy Secretary Burns, Jake, Alec,

Please keep close hold, but my team is planning to launch a tool on Sunday that will publicly track and map the defections in Syria and which parts of the government they are coming from. Our logic behind this is that while many people are tracking the atrocities, nobody is visually representing and mapping the defections, which we believe are important in encouraging more to defect and giving confidence to the opposition. Given how hard it is to get information into Syria right now, we are partnering with Al-Jazeera who will take primary ownership over the tool we have built, track the data, verify it, and broadcast it back into Syria. I've attached a few visuals that show what the tool will look like. Please keep this very close hold and let me know if there is anything eke you think we need to account for or think about before we launch. We believe this can have an important impact.

Thanks,
Jared

The original email was from Jared Cohen, then a director at Google Ideas and now CEO at Jigsaw, the renamed Google Ideas. Here is his entire resume from the Council on Foreign Relations website where he is touted as one of the great "global thinkers" whatever that might be:

Jared Cohen is the Founder and President of Jigsaw, a technology incubator at Alphabet Inc. previously known as Google Ideas. He also serves as the Senior Advisor to Alphabet's Executive Chairman Eric Schmidt and an Adjunct Senior Fellow at the Council on Foreign Relations. From 2006 to 2010 he served as a member of the Secretary of State's Policy Planning Staff and a close advisor to both Condoleezza Rice and Hillary Clinton.

Cohen is the New York Times bestselling author of four books. His books include The New Digital Age: Transforming Nations, Business, and our Lives (Knopf), which he coauthored with Eric Schmidt. His other books include Children of Jihad (Gotham/Penguin), One Hundred Days of Silence: America and the Rwanda Genocide (Rowman & Littlefield), and the forthcoming The Accidental Presidents (Simon & Schuster).

His recent Foreign Affairs article, "Waging a Digital Counterinsurgency Against ISIS," offered a strategy for countering ISIS as a multidimensional threat. His writing has appeared in The New York Times, Wall Street Journal, Washington Post, LA Times, and TIME Magazine, and covers a range of topics from national security issues to artificial intelligence. He has a longstanding interest in international security issues, including countering violent extremism. He has traveled to more than 100 countries, including Iran and North Korea, and conducted interviews with members of extremist groups including Hezbollah, AlQaeda, the Taliban, AlShabab, Asbat alAnsar, Somali pirates, and former ISIS fighters.

He has been named to the "TIME 100" list, Foreign Policy's "Top 100 Global Thinkers," and Vanity Fair's "Next Establishment." He serves as a member of the National Counterterrorism Center's (NCTC) Director's Advisory Board and on the board of the Tribeca Film Institute. Cohen is on several advisory boards, including Rivet Ventures, Redbird Capital, and ASAAP. He is a member of Gen Next and was named a Young Global Leader by the World Economic Forum. Cohen received his B.A. from Stanford University and his M.Phil in International Relations from University of Oxford, where he studied as a Rhodes Scholar.

He received his BA from Stanford University and his M.Phil in International Relations from Oxford University, where he studied as a Rhodes Scholar. He speaks fluent Swahili.

Mr. Cohen was one of the very few members of Secretary of State Condoleezza Rice's Policy Planning Staff that remained when Hillary Clinton took over in 2009 under the Obama Administration. He left this position on September 2, 2010, taking a position with the Council on Foreign Relations and was also hired as the first director of Google Ideas \(aka Jigsaw\) in October 2010. For those of you who are not aware of Jigsaw, it is a technology incubator that was created by Google with the mantra that it is using its capabilities to build "tools to make the world safer".

The aforementioned email by Mr. Cohen's to the Deputy Secretary of the State Department William Burns briefly outlines how Google in partnership with Al Jazeera was working on a tool that would help the United States track the Syrian conflict, particularly, defections from the Assad regime, which would give Washington an insider's viewpoint of how the civil war was progressing.

Google/Jigsaw is quite proud of this achievement, touting it on their "Projects - Made possible by Jigsaw" webpage as shown here:

Syria Defection Tracker

In the midst of the Syrian civil war, it was difficult to find reliable information about which side was winning and how the government of Bashar Al-Assad was disintegrating. We built a tool in partnership with Al Jazeera that uses social media to crowdsource information about which government officials were defecting from the Assad government and joining the opposition.

Graduated to Al Jazeera

Explore ›

The challenge: Injustice and corruption

Here is a screen capture from Al Jazeera showing that this tool was, at best, only modestly successful since it only tracked a total of 103 individuals in total:

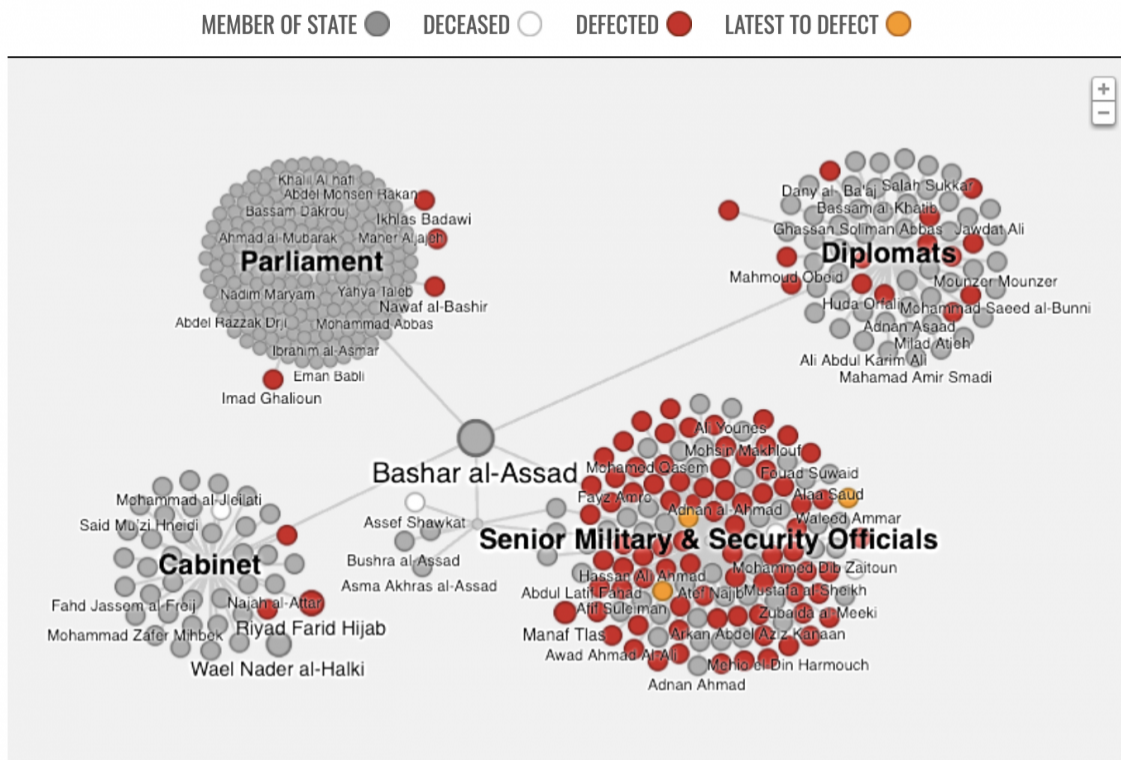

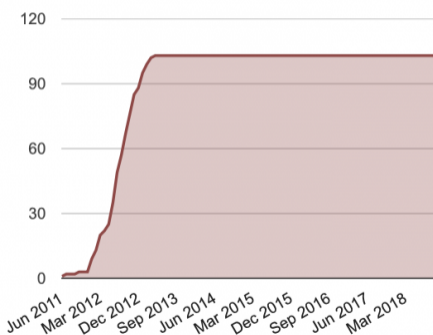

CHART OF CUMULATIVE DEFECTIONS

NUMBER OF HIGH LEVEL DEFECTIONS

- Senior Military & Security Officials: 82
- Cabinet: 3
- Parliament: 4
- Diplomats: 14
- Total: 103

Information is often difficult to verify due to the rapidly changing situation on the ground and limited access to journalists and international bodies.

As we now know, these defections were really not that important in the grand scheme of the 7 year-long civil war except that the "opposition" mentioned by Mr. Cohen in his email is al-Qaeda. It is also important to remember that Al Jazeera is a state-funded broadcaster in Qatar and that Qatar has delivered significant quantities of arms to anti-Assad rebel groups since April 2012 as well as making payments to defectors from the Syrian army as you can read here.

Mr. Cohen has a long track record of geopolitical maneuvering in the Middle East. Here is an email from Stratfor in February 2011 outlining Mr. Cohen's involvement in the Iranian uprising of 2009 when he persuaded Twitter co-founder Jack Dorsey to postpone the scheduled maintenance on the twitter platform because it could quash the viral spread of protests in Tehran during the Green Revolution:

According to Fast Company, Cohen's actions violated the Obama Administration's policy of non-interference, prompting President Obama to ask "Who is Jared Cohen and why haven't we fired him yet?"

Cohen's rabbi is Eric Schmidt and Obama lackey.

My source is trying to find out if the billionaire owners are backing Cohen's efforts for regime change.

I'm thinking about having the Palestinians pick him up.

Google is not clear if Cohen is operating w/a State Dept/WH license, or a hippie activist.

Google may be more important than Obama. Their lefty billionaire owners think they can change the world. I would prefer Google run the world vice the WH.

In this email, Fred Burton questions whether Google's "billionaire owners" are backing Cohen's efforts for "regime change" and notes that the company's "lefty billionaire owners think that they can change the world".

Lastly, here is another Stratfor email from February 2011 further discussing Google's covert role in Middle East geopolitics, in particular foaming (fomenting) uprisings and meetings with Iranians as part of a Google Ideas projects on repressive societies:

GOOGLE is getting WH and State Dept. support & air cover. In reality, they are doing things the CIA cannot do. But, I agree with you. He's going to get himself kidnapped or killed. Might be the best thing to happen to expose GOOGLE's covert role in foaming up-risings, to be blunt. The US Govt can then disavow knowledge and GOOGLE is left holding the shit bag.

What should concern all of us is Mr. Cohen's (and by extension, Google's) involvement in the melding of diplomacy and technology. The involvement of Google in world politics is just part of the growing techno-tyrant movement where the billionaires that control Silicon Valley are taking a leading position on telling us what we should and should not believe and forcing their globalist agenda on the world.
