

This MIT Gadget Can Google Search Your Thoughts

The storied program is still trying to push the envelope.

Last night's 60 Minutes took a look inside MIT's Media Lab. Calling it "the Future Factory," the show got a look at some of the remarkable projects being built, including devices that can Google your thoughts and capture the brain's creativity while going to sleep.

