

Two-faced Feinstein urged Obama in 2014 to use broad power to limit immigration

By Samuel Chamberlain |

Sen. Dianne Feinstein, D-Calif., (AP Photo/Alex Brandon)

Sen. Dianne Feinstein, D-Calif., (AP Photo/Alex Brandon) (AP)

Sen. Dianne Feinstein, D-Calif., told then-President Barack Obama in the summer of 2014 that he could use "very broad power" to limit immigration as he saw fit, according to a letter obtained by Fox News.

In the July 29 letter, Feinstein cites Section 212(f) of the Immigration and Nationality Act -- the same federal legislation cited by the Trump administration Thursday in unveiling a rule denying asylum claims to migrants who enter the country illegally.

"Whenever the president finds that the entry of any aliens or of any class of aliens into the United States would be detrimental to the interests of the United States," the legislation states, "he may by proclamation, and for such period as he shall deem necessary, suspend the entry of all aliens or any class of aliens as immigrants or nonimmigrants, or impose on the entry of