

Mueller Sought Emails of Trump Campaign Data Firm But Google Is Next!!!

Special counsel asked Cambridge Analytica to hand over employees' emails, in sign of investigators' interest in campaign data operation

Analytica Chief Executive Alexander Nix, seen in this September photo, interviewed via videoconference with Intelligence Committee on Thursday, according to a person familiar with the matter.

▫ Analytica Chief Executive Alexander Nix, seen in this September photo, interviewed via videoconference with Intelligence Committee on Thursday, according to a person familiar with the matter. PHOTO: ALEX EPA/SHUTTERSTOCK

By Rebecca Ballhaus

 157 COMMENTS

Dec. 14, 2017 7:15 p.m. ET

Special Counsel Robert Mueller has requested that Cambridge Analytica, a data firm that worked for President Donald Trump's campaign, turn over documents as part of its investigation into Russian interference in the 2016 U.S. election, according to people familiar with the matter.